Foe of city crime indicted
Feds allege ex-funeral home president had ties to drug money

Laser vs. metal at UR yields high-tech promise
Researcher's process gives new meaning to black gold, for example, instead of being shiny and golden, turns dark black.

Deadline nears for drug plan enrollment

Bidders pay $4.5M for museum's art
Probable record for the short-lived Parisian sculptor, Sotheby's told Tico.

Former Xerox CEO dies in Westchester
A former Xerox Corp. chairman and chief executive, C. Peter McColough, has died at 84 in Rye Brook. McColough led Xerox remembered Monday as a man who helped turn the company into an international giant.